

Important Intersections in Advocacy for Young Key Populations

By Marie

Key Populations to be Discussed

Young Female Sex Workers: Challenges in reproductive health, violence, and economic vulnerability.

young LBQ Sex Workers: Emphasizing the additional layers of discrimination and challenges faced by LBQ sex workers, advocating for inclusive healthcare, economic empowerment, and protection from violence and discrimination.

Key Intersections in Advocacy

1. Intersection of Health and Human Rights:

- Prioritize healthcare access and human rights.

2. The intersection of Economic Empowerment and Social Protection:

- Focus on alternative livelihood opportunities and social protection.

3. The intersection of Gender Equality and Violence Prevention:

- Address gender-based violence and exploitation.

4. The intersection of Policy Advocacy and Community Engagement:

- Influence policy and engage with the community.

Conclusion:

- The advocacy for young sex workers in their diversity, including LBQ individuals, must be multifaceted, addressing health, human rights, economic empowerment, gender equality, and policy engagement. By recognizing and acting on these intersections, we can create a more supportive and inclusive environment for young key populations.
